ADVICE SERVICE

Women and Girls Network's Ascent Advice Service provides free and confidential information, advice and support to women and girls affected by domestic and/or sexual violence and abuse.

The Advice team will provide you with immediate information about your options and about staying safe.

Specialist information is provided on a wide range of issues including:

- Personal safety
- Emotional wellbeing
- Housing and homelessness
- Finances and welfare benefits
- Legal options and processes
- Child related concerns

The Advice team also offers specialist short term face to face support to women and girls affected by domestic and sexual violence who are living in London, and is able to link you with other appropriate services such as specialist counselling, group work support, refuge accommodation, specialist solicitors, and long term advocacy support.

The Advice Line is also open for professionals to access advice and support on cases relating to gender based violence.
